Dear Mr I Meyer

I, Daniel Rudolph Krügel, declare that since 2008/07 I have been inviting you to personally come and witness tests carried out using the KTT, but despite this you have continued, in a most dishonest manner, to inflict irreparable damage on me and my family, and no settlement or any other action on your part would ever justify that.

However, I am more than prepared to train any person or persons from KPMG to test out the KTT in the presence of you and your representative in order to demonstrate beyond a reasonable doubt that, by means of analysing a sample of hair and/or blood and/or bodily fluid, the KTT is able to convincingly and repeatedly pinpoint the location of the source of that sample.

Moreover, I am prepared to locate any person whose hair sample has been taken by KPMG and handed over to me in an envelope without me ever having laid eyes on that person beforehand. Such a test could be conducted in a search area measuring 2km by 2km, and I would not enter that particular area with my equipment, but instead would work only from outside the area. Only KPMG would know the location of the person in question, and I would then have to pinpoint that person's location on a map before the person revealed his/her whereabouts.

A third test could be conducted whereby KPMG arranges for some people to hide away in a building and I would then, without ever entering the building, draw up a map of where those people are hiding.

The invention is based on the principle that it is possible to locate anything as long as one has a sample thereof.

The details of the test and the signing of test results and other documentation will be clarified during our meeting with KPMG, in the presence of your legal representative and my legal representative, to ensure that the entire process is completely legal and proper.

I would appreciate it if you could provide me with your title, position and personal particulars, as well as the contact details of your legal representative.

As I did three or four months ago, I am inviting you to attend a demonstration of my tests because I am extremely excited about my discovery, and I would like you to witness the success of my invention with 100% confidence and without prejudice to my rights.

It would be wonderful if you could also get Randi's people to attend and a positive result would mean immediate payment, to ensure that neither you nor I nor Randi can turn around later and distort the situation.

Danie Krügel
